WOODLANDS FARM METHODS.

"Knowing that western horsemen had no chance with eastern owners in the scramble for good jockeys unless they developed their own riders, Schreiber started in to adopt the latter method, and he went about it in the most practical manner possible, establishing a kindergarten class for jockeys at his Woodlands breeding farm near Bridgeton in St. Louis county," says the St. Louis Republic.

"The farm's equipment includes a six-furlong track, over which the speedy race mare, Miss Marion, worked five-eighths of a mile as a two-year-old, in 1:01 and a fraction. It is hardly necessary to add that a track on which a two-year-old can travel that fast must be kept in first-class condition all year around. All the Schreiber horses are trained on it. Two trainers are at present engaged in breaking thirty head of yearlings. These youngsters are barely halter-wise when taken up. They have to be handled with great care and patience. Ten men and as many boys are required to do the job right.

"Most of the boys are little orphans and have been at the farm for over a year. They are regularly bound over to the master of Woodlands, who has guaranteed to take care and educate them until they reach the age of eighteen, when they become their own masters.

"The first thing the boys are taught is to ride. They receive their first lessons on well-broken horses, and after learning the art of straddling a horse properly the boys are placed astride the gay and festive yearlings.

"When first taken up a yearling is as shy as a country maiden. The least thing will frighten the little animal out of its senses. In view of this fact, the man and boys must be exceedingly careful with their charges until the youngsters get some sort of an idea about what is wanted of them. After that the job is easy, especially if their handlers have exercised patience and not soured the animals by rough treatment for shyness, or frisky conduct at the beginning of racehorse careers.

"The first thing a yearling is taught is to turn to the left always. No matter how they are brought on the track the trainers never allow them to reverse to the right. Schooling in this manner prevents them from swerving for the gate through which they entered the track during the progress of a race. Nearly all racehorses run with their left foot forward, although some yearlings are rather backward about learning that it is much easier on them to run that way around turns. Sofala, when a yearling, was very slow about ascertaining this fact. The first time she caught on, however, she stepped a quarter of a mile around the turn at the Oakland track in twenty-three seconds.

"If handled correctly from the start, a nice dispositioned horse is the result; but, on the other hand, if the yearling is not broken right, its future value as a racing machine may be entirely ruined. Different methods are used to correct a young racehorse's faults. Bullying is never advisable. Occasionally a youngster will turn up with a mean disposition that may have been bred in the animal. In this case it is difficult to break it, and sometimes the horse will always be dangerous to have around. As a rule, however, breeders do everything in their power to prevent perpetuation of this breed of beasts. Bad actors are seen at the race-track every day, but, generally speaking, the talk about it having been bred in them is a libel on their breeders. In nearly every case the trouble was caused by the horse not having been broken properly. Of course, a horse must be taught to obey his master, but it is never necessary to abuse or bully an animal in order to accomplish the desired result. In fact, many a high-strung, fragile thoroughbred has been irretrievably ruined by such treatment, when a little coaxing might have started the animal on a career that would have proved profitable to his owner.

"Sometimes it is the boy who gallops it or maybe the man who grooms it that does the damage. A good trainer will take no chances with either boy or man until satisfied that both can be thoroughly trusted. Before a boy is put up a colt is walked several days with saddle and bridle on. After the animal gets used to them a boy is given a leg up. If the youngster is going to be fractious, it will show its colors as soon as saddled, or if not then, when the boy is put up.

"Their method of causing trouble at this stage of the game is to buck like western bronchos. The boys are frequently unhorsed, but nothing short of a broken bone, which seldom happens, prevents them from getting up again. After awhile the colt will get tired of bucking and submit to be led around for several days. Then the stirrups are strung to the saddle and the youngsters taken to the track, where they are walked, jogged, galloped and finally breezed, a sixteenth, then an eighth and possibly a quarter of a mile being about as far as they are sent before entering winter quarters in the fall.

"At Woodlands the sucklings are fed grain long before they are weaned. Sofala is a specimen of what they breed at Woodlands. This filly commenced racing a few days after she became a two-year-old, and had won twelve races in fourteen starts before nine-tenths of the youngsters now in training were sent to the post for the first time.

"A small division of the most advanced yearlings now being broken at the farm will be taken to San Francisco next winter. The Frisco tracks begin giving races for juveniles in January. This may seem rather early to commence running the babies, but it does not hurt them, apparently. Golden Rule, Yellow Tail, Sardine and Sofala, developed into great runners after receiving hard 'preps' for early two-year-old racing.

"Among the boys at the farm there are several that give promise of developing into race riders. Leslie Spencer, who is a brother of the crack California jockey, Henry Spencer, is very ambitious and has great hopes of emulating his brother's success in the saddle. Harry Larson, John Golden and John Peterson have all been at the farm for over a year, and are considered expert hands at galloping runners.

"Malcolm Graham wants to be a jockey, but Walter ViVell, the new foreman of the ranch, is inclined to think that Malcolm will achieve greater success as a trainer, and has appointed him foreman of his private stable. This consists at present of Hein and Oli Ban, a pair of thoroughbreds that have been broken to harness and are now being used in the field. Professor Gleason himself could not have broken these horses more thoroughly and rapidly than ViVell, who cut a wide swath on the metropolitan tracks some years back with the good race horse Cousin Jeems.

"Trainers Martin Hubbell and Herman Brandt, who are breaking the yearlings, pay as much attention to the exercise boys as they do to the horses. The best way to teach a boy how to handle a horse with care and patience is to treat him that way himself when he is starting in. Each boy has three yearlings to exercise, and they are expected to devote as much attention to them as a boy in school does to his books. By close application to their duties the boys ascertain all the little peculiarities of their different charges. Knowledge of this sort is always appreciated by the trainer in charge. A man can always achieve better results with a horse, especially while breaking the animal, after getting a thorough line on its disposition. When first taken hold of the boys are put through a regular course of sprouts.

"In the hands of an experienced horseman they develop rapidly. Schreiber has always had a first-class staff of men around his stable, which accounts for the rapid progress of the boys at the farm. Their development from green boys into experienced exercise lads inside of a year speaks well for the school they went through. Discussing the boys, Mr. Hubbell said:

"The first thing we try to teach them is to sit right on a horse's back. A good seat in the saddle is the most essential qualification that a competent race rider must possess. After a boy learns how to sit in the saddle it makes a world of difference to both rider and horse. Before he gets on to the hang of sitting properly in the saddle an exercise boy is as much out of place as a fish out of water. He is constantly shifting from one side to the other and back and forward, with a view to finding the most comfortable position possible. This irritates a horse considerably and interferes with the animal's action to an extent that none but an experienced horseman can appreciate.

"After they learn to sit right and get onto the knack of handling the reins correctly practice makes perfect. Then they become as steady as a good clock, provided you have the right sort of boys. Before a boy can pass muster as a competent race rider he ought to be able to sit steady with both hands and feet, as well as his legs and arms. In fact, he should ride with as little motion as possible. What appears to be action on a good rider's part is only the swing of his body forward and backward to the horse's stride. The least bobble on the rider's part will throw a horse off his stride. In breaking yearlings the boys are made to walk and jog them with a loose rein.

"A horse's mouth is extremely sensitive, and a boy should handle the reins with care. Jockeys that excel in this respect are called great hand riders. Willie Martin had a perfect pair of riding hands, while Henry Spencer is about the best hand rider in the saddle to-day. When boys first get a leg up on a racehorse they imagine they must grab the reins tight and bend over a horse's neck like a snake, instead of sitting up so as to throw their weight on the horse's shoulders. We soon break them of this, however, or get rid of them.

"The next thing to teach a boy is to judge pace for himself. The only way to do this is to be truthful with him always as to just how fast a horse went under him. When he works a yearling an eighth in 12 seconds or a quarter in 24, be sure and tell him so. Some trainers never think of letting a boy know what the watch registered after a trial, while others, fearing a leakage of stable secrets, keep it to themselves. On the other hand, if a boy is told how fast his mount traveled it will not be long before he gets so well acquainted with a running horse's stride that he can come pretty near telling how fast a horse moved under him without asking what the ticker scored.

"Competent exercise boys always command good wages. James Coffey, who campaigned the race mare Rosinante at San Francisco last winter, was the best-paid exercise boy I know of. When a lad he worked for Dwyer Bros., who paid him $100 per month to gallop some of their turf stars. Schreiber always has a select corps of crack exercise boys to gallop the best horses in his stable. He considers it too risky to put up anything but good exercise boys as well as competent jockeys on $10,000 racehorses like Bannockburn and Sofala. Crack jockeys will not exercise horses for their own stables sometimes. Felix Carr and Charles Slaughter, when they were in their prime, never hesitated about galloping a horse for us, but Bullman seldom galloped any at 'Frisco last winter, and we paid him a monthly retainer of $500."

RACING AT HAWTHORNE.

The track was heavy and holding yesterday at Hawthorne, but notwithstanding this the attendance was up to the average and the racing all the way through was interesting. There were three close finishes, one accident, a rank form reversal and a disqualification, so it is plainly seen that there was reason for excitement. Only one favorite second during the afternoon and consequently the bookmakers must have had a winning day.

There was no distinct feature to the racing, but more than ordinary interest was centered around the last event, which was at one mile for three-year-olds. There were but five starters in this race, but every horse was well backed. Norford was the natural favorite and opening at 6 to 5 was backed down to 9 to 10. Greenock, from the Schorr stable, with Burns up, was cut from 2½ to 1 down to 2 to 1. Aloha II, dropped from 30 to 1 to 20 to 1, and Major Mansir's price shrank from 20 to 1 to 15 to 1. The Unknown was the only one that lacked much support and opening at fours his price steadily receded to tens.

Norford's forte is speed and mud and everything taken into consideration he perhaps should have won this race but Starter Holtman was none too kind to him and sent him away all tangled up. This seemed to rattle the once-famous jockey, Patsy McDermott, who was riding Norford, and he at once went to work and rode the colt for all he was worth in an effort to get quickly to the front. Burns, who had managed to get away in front with Greenock, hung close to Norford all down the backstretch and this had a tendency to make the Baldwin colt stop. The Unknown tried to come up in between Norford and Greenock on the far turn but he was promptly shut off and for an instant at the head of the stretch it seemed that the favorite was going to win but the early pace told on him and when pressure was brought to bear he swerved badly, sharply interfering with and almost throwing Greenock over the fence. About this time along came Aloha II, who had been plodding in behind the leaders all the way, and with a well timed rush he got to and passed Norford a sixteenth out, winning cleverly by a length. The judges wasted little or no time in disqualifying Norford who finished second, thereby giving The Unknown second place and Greenock the third end of the purse.

The judges set Patsy McDermott down for the remainder of the meeting for foul riding. This ruling seems a trifle sharp inasmuch as Norford was a tired horse when he hit the head of the stretch, and it is doubtful if any other jockey could have kept him from swerving as he did.

The sudden awakening of Prince Blazes in the fifth race caused no end of comment. The gelding's last two races at Washington Park were very bad, but in yesterday's race he had speed enough to go to the front at the start and led all the way, finishing three-quarters of a length in front of the favorite, Walkenshaw, with Bullman up. The Prince's price was 8 and 10 to 1 in this race, but it is hardly possible that the long price should make any difference in the gelding's running.

Annowan's win in the fourth race was a sensational one. He was ridden by L. Rose and seemed to flounder in the going at the start and was also interfered with to a certain extent when Tremble fell on the first turn, consequently when the field got straightened away down the backstretch Annowan was ten lengths behind. Rose used good judgment and never tried to better his position until the colt got well settled in his stride, which he did shortly after passing the half mile post, and then he gradually picked up his horses one by one and when the stretch was reached he was second only three lengths back of Intriguer. The latter quit badly in the final furlong but Annowan kept right on going and at the finish was a length and a half in the lead. Holdup outgamed Intriguer and beat him by a neck for second place.

Bullman perhaps threw the third race away on Sannazarro. The colt is a mud runner of high class, and at the head of the stretch had a lead of a length and a half; but instead of going on about his business Bullman thought it proper to pose a bit in front of the stand, when all of a sudden along came Dandy Jim with a terrific rush, and before Bullman got out of his trance the wire was reached and Dandy Jim's number was staring the crowd in the face. San-nazarro pulled up quite lame, and Bullman offers as an excuse for being beaten that the colt broke down under him. But, as a matter of fact, he was caught napping. Robert Waddell, in this race, made a cracking good showing under a miserable ride, and will be a hard horse to beat when next out in such company.

It was like finding it to take the money on Hermoso in the second race, which was a condition affair at three-quarters of a mile. Weight seems to cut little or no figure with this horse and in the mud he comes pretty near being a stake horse. He was held at 8 to 5 and Pupil, on account of Bullman, was quoted at 11 to 10.
Rose broke in front with Hermoso and was never headed, winning under a stout pull by three lengths. Pupil did his best, and at one time in the stretch got alarmingly close to Hermoso, but this was simply because Rose got careless and at the end the big chestnut son of Sir Modred—Fidelity was going away.

Icon, at the false price of 5 to 1, lasted long enough to stagger home in front of Woodstick in the first race. This colt Icon has a particular fondness for heavy going. He was lucky here, however, in getting away flying, otherwise Woodstick would have won.

Jockey M. Dunn, who fell with Tremble in the fourth race, was not badly hurt.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

The following names have been registered with Messrs. Weatherby in London for American two-year-olds: By J. R. Keene, Running Stream, for ch. f. by Domino—Dancing Water, and Mardi Gras, for ch. c. by Domino—Paradox;
by W. Samson, Bonita, for ch. f. by Iroquois—Fairy.

Secretary Joe Murphy offered the turfmen running their horses at the St. Louis Fair Grounds a novelty in the shape of a program of races for this week that does not contain a single selling race.

S. C. Hildreth has sold to T. D. Sullivan the chestnut gelding Maximo Gomez, 5, by Victory
—Quesal, for $5,500. Mr. Hildreth bought Maximo Gomez a few weeks ago for $5,000.

Foxhall Keene has announced that Cap and Bells will be taken to England along with Commando after the Futurity is run, and expects both to do well abroad next year.

Barry, steeplechase jockey, will ride no more for F. Beard, who says he disobeyed orders while riding Charagrace at Brighton last Saturday.

W. L. Oliver has purchased of E. Garrison, of the Criterion Stable, a yearling colt by Prince of Monaco—Trinity for $1,500.

Wax Taper was purchased Monday by an agent acting for John F. Schorr.

Subscriber and E. A. C., Chicago—May Beach

Winner—D. c. by Ten Shiner—Belle Boiesan.
Went to post at 2:15. At post 7 minutes. Start fair. Won driving and staggering; the next two were also under keen pressure. Icon's stronghold is mud and he gained a winning lead in the first three furlongs. He was tiring badly at the end and barely lasted long enough to win. Woodstick ran a good, game race but hung a trifle in the last twenty yards, otherwise he might have won. Galanthus had bad racing luck early. It is doubtful, though, if he could have beaten either of the first two with clear sailing. Al Brown seemed to labor in the going and was badly outrun in the first part of the race but made up ground at the end. Fondo did not like the going. First Pop showed a flash of speed. The field was badly strung out all the way.

Overweights—Volkman, 3 pounds; Al Brown, 1; Icon, 2; Galanthus, 1.
Icon, place, 2 to 1; show, evens. Woodstick, place, 9 to 5; show, 4 to 5. Galanthus, show, 2 to 5. Fondo, place, 8 to 5; show, 4 to 5.

Winner—Ch. h. by Sir Modred—Fidelity.
Went to post at 2:50. At post 4 minutes. Start good. Won easily; second and third the same. Hermoso revealed in the going and handled his 124 pounds like a true race horse. In heavy going he is an exceedingly hard horse to beat. It seemed at one time in the stretch that he was tiring, but when called upon, he came on again finely. Pupil did his best. Pay the Fiddler showed a lot of speed and passing the half-mile post, was lapped on Hermoso, but tired and quit in the stretch. The others were never within striking distance and were all pulled up at the end.

Overweights—Pupil, 2 pounds; Senator Thompson, 14.

Winner—Ch. c. by Rowland—Frances Nichols.
Went to post at 3:25. At post 12 minutes. Start good for all but Faraday Jr. Won driving to the limit; second the same. Dandy Jim, outrun in the first part of the race, came with a tremendous rush at the end. He was a good colt early this spring and seems to be in his best form at present. Sannazaro perhaps should have won. Bullman became a trifle careless on him in the last sixteenth. Still the colt pulled up quite lame, and it would hardly be right to say Bullman threw the race away under these circumstances. Jiminez ran a good race. So did Robert Waddell, under a miserable ride. This colt is good and can win with a competent rider up. Gold Badge was prominent for about three furlongs and then retired. Rio de Altar ran his race at the post.

Dandy Jim, place, 6 to 1; show, 2 to 1. Sannazaro, place, 2 to 5; show, out. Jiminez, show, 6 to 5.

Winner—Br. c. by Logic—Annawan.
Went to post at 4:00. Off at the first break to a good start. Won in a drive; second and third were also hard at it. Annawan ran a phenomenally good race. He was not in his stride at the start and was also interfered with when Tremble fell. Consequently when going down the back stretch he did not appear to have a chance to win, but Rose persevered with him and waited until those in front tired and then made his move. Annawan was game and when the pinch came responded like a true thoroughbred. Hold Up stopped and came again in the stretch and will be hard to beat when next out in the same company. Intriguer showed a lot of speed but tired badly at the end. Hosi was perhaps short. Durwad had a good workout for a jumping race. Tremble stumbled and fell on the first turn but no serious damage resulted from the fall.

Overweights—Annawan, 2 pounds.
Annawan, place, 4 to 5; show, out. Holdup, place, 2 to 1; show, evens. Intriguer, show, 8 to 5. Sister Fox, place, 8 to 5; show, 7 to 10. Durwad, place, 8 to 5; show, 4 to 5.

Winner—B. g. by Blazes—Bettie Prince.
Went to post at 4:30. At post 11 minutes. Start good. Won driving mildly; second fully extended. Prince Blazes awoke with a start and ran a surprisingly good race. The last time he started at Washington Park, in the mud with Vittoe up, he could not get out of his own way. Walkenshaw was well handled and ran to his best form. Frangible held third place safe all the way. Lomond showed speed. Bishop Reed seems to be of little or no present account. Owensboro ran a fair sort of a race.

Overweights—Frangible, 3 pounds.
Prince Blazes, place, 24 to 1; show, evens. Walkenshaw, place, 1 to 2; show, out. Frangibile, show, 1 to 2.

Winner—Ch. g. by Aloha—Blanche.
Went to post at 5:05. Off at the first break. Start fair. Won cleverly after an early drive. There was sharp action behind the winner. Aloha II. won a lucky race. He loafed in behind the leaders, who were bumping and interfering with one another, until the stretch was reached, then he went to the front cleverly on the outside. Norford was the best and should have won off by himself. He got away all tangled up, and was much used on the first turn in trying to get to the front. Greenock hung to Norford like a leech all down the back stretch and made the Baldwin colt stop. Norford interfered with The Unknown on the far turn and also almost threw Greenock over the fence at the head of the stretch. He was certainly entitled to be disqualified. The Unknown showed fine speed, but was hardly ready. He will be a hard horse to beat in his class hereafter. Greenock was right there all the way and pulled up sound.

Aloha II., place, 4 to 1; show, evens. Norford, place, 1 to 3; show, out. The Unknown, show, evens. Greenock, place, 1 to 3; show, out.

Winner—B. g, by Free Knight—Rhadamantha.
Went to post at 3:36. At post 3 minutes. Start good. Won in a hot drive; second the same. Will Fay revealed in the going, got away well and was ridden extremely well, but barely lasted long enough to stall off El Ghor's rush at the finish. The latter ran well and finished strongly. Duty had no excuses. Lottie Mills and Helen H. Gardner had rough journeys. Water Crest got off badly, was cut off and could not get through soon enough.

Scratched—19223 Annolee, 92.

Overweights—Duty, 3 pounds; Domozetta, 2.

Will Fay, place, 8 to 1; show, 4 to 1. El Ghor, place, evens; show, 1 to 2. Duty, show, 1 to 2.
